SPECIAL EDITION

CANADA, HAMILTON ✱ City Series ✱ 35.6762° N/ 139.6503° E

PEACE SYMBOL WALK

WALKING AS ACTIVISM

Drawn on McMaster campus using GPS tracking.
The peace symbol reclaims space through walking.
Each step marks visibility and solidarity.

THEORY LINKS

SOLNIT — WALKING IS POLITICAL.*
LEONG, HJORTH & CHOI — TECHNOLOGY MAKES MOVEMENT VISIBLE.*
MARNELL — VISIBILITY BUILDS SOLIDARITY.*
FOSTER — MIGRANT PRECARITY ALSO WALKS INVISIBLE PATHS.*

The peace symbol walk connects personal movement with collective precarity.
Every GPS trace resists invisibility, echoing migrant workers' unseen labour (Foster, 2021).
Walking becomes data, data becomes testimony.

SOLNIT, R. (2001). WANDERLUST: A HISTORY OF WALKING. PENGUIN BOOKS.
LEONG, J., HJORTH, L., & CHOI, J. (2021). INVENTIVE APPROACHES TO DATA TRACKING IN MORE-THAN-HUMAN WORLDS. IN L. HJORTH ET AL. (EDS.), THE ROUTLEDGE COMPANION TO MOBILE MEDIA ART. ROUTLEDGE.
MARNELL, J. (2022). TELLING A DIFFERENT STORY: ON THE POLITICS OF REPRESENTING AFRICAN LGBTQ MIGRANTS, REFUGEES AND ASYLUM SEEKERS. IN B. CAMMINGA & J. MARNELL (EDS.), QUEER AND TRANS AFRICAN MOBILITIES. ROUTLEDGE.
HOPE, C. (2020). FROM EARLY SOUNDINGS TO LOCATIVE LISTENING IN MOBILE MEDIA ART. IN L. HJORTH ET AL. (EDS.), THE ROUTLEDGE COMPANION TO MOBILE MEDIA ART. ROUTLEDGE.
FOSTER, J. (2021). TRACKING PRECARITY: EMPLOYMENT PATHWAYS OF PRECARIOUS STATUS MIGRANT WORKERS IN CANADA. CANADIAN JOURNAL OF SOCIOLOGY, 46(3), 257–278.